FREE Data Health Check

Do you experience inconsistent metrics, slow reporting, siloed data sources, and stale/unusable data? If you're looking for guidance on a strategic roadmap for your data initiatives, here's a good place to start.

In collaboration with Google Cloud & Looker, we are offering a free Data Health Check that provides the insights you need for a successful data strategy.

What it is

The Data Health Check is a 60-minute session for our expert team of customer-focused engineers to analyze your most important data-driven initiatives. They will:
- Discuss your current data strategy, the opportunities it offers, and the challenges you face.

- Identify technology and process transformations that can help you achieve success.

- Provide best-practice recommendations about data warehousing, reporting, governance, self-service, and business intelligence.

What you can expect

After your session, an actionable summary report with tailored recommendations will be provided for your executive and leadership team.
